VERACE
PIZZA
NAPOLETANA

The Verace Pizza Napoletana association (AVPN) is an organisation that certifies the authenticity of Pizza Napoletana. This certification is given to pizzerias who meet strict requirements that respect the tradition of the art of the Neapolitan pizza making. When you taste our pizza, you are enjoying pizza, exactly how it would taste in Naples!

D.O.P stands for 'Denominazione di origine protetta'

The Italian term for the EU system of Protected Designation of Origin. If you see D.O.P in our menu, the product we are using is the genuine article sourced from the correct region for that product.

The Guardian

I pine for more.

I'm satisfied and happy, not bloated with the cheap carbs and self-loathing that lesser pizzas trail in their wake...I pine for more as soon as the last mouthful has disappeared into my face: perfectly airy, elastic dough, the all important cornicione dotted with little blisters of char, and the centre dressed with fruity, oil-blessed tomato and strings of milky cheese.

The very best places to eat pizza.

It's the first restaurant in the UK to be approved by the Associazione Verace Pizza Napoletana. I met an Italian chef from a very posh restaurant in Kent who says he goes there a lot - if it's good enough for the Italians...

Proper Neapolitan Pizza at Casa Mia Herne Bay. Loved it last night.

The best pizza in Kent, a stone's throw from the beach

Upstairs, past the giant hump of the wood-fired pizza oven and several photographs of that quintessential advertisement for Italian cooking, Sophia 'everything you see I owe to spaghetti' Loren, there's a bright, unfussy room where Gennaro Esposito's English wife will bring you crispy zucchini fries, pasta, if that's what you want, and most importantly, superb pizza, light of crust, generous of topping - all those you'd expect and a few, like smoked cheese or chips, you wouldn't.

For an authentic Italian meal, A Casa Mia is the place to be. From the handmade dough to the traditional Neapolitan pizza over, A Casa Mia is serving you a slice of Naples in the beautiful seaside town of Herne Bay.

Waitrose Food Magazine July 2018

This idea of changing attitudes and expectations among locals was also important to Neapolitan chef Gennaro Esposito. His Herne Bay pizzeria, A Casa Mia, does a roaring trade offering classic Neapolitan-style pizzas to an appreciative crowd. "I do have to explain to a few people that this Neapolitan style of pizza is soft and pliable, not thin and crispy, but our regulars love it." A Casa Mia was the first restaurant in the UK to be certified as Vera Pizza Napoletana, in recognition of Gennaro's commitment to authentic techniques and ingredients. "A gas oven is more practical and less messy than our traditional wood-fired oven, but, at the end of the day, tradition is tradition," he says firmly.
